

Accent on Worship

Anna Scott

There is a book idea that I've been contemplating for some time. I would co-write it with my twin sister in honor of our younger sister and the wisdom we've lovingly offered her throughout her years. It would address a whole scheme of life's growing pains and how to get through them as a kind, responsible human being. Things like how to be a good bridesmaid, or what's appropriate during the death of a loved one, and things to say or not say to a friend going through a struggle like infertility, mental illness, or a bad breakup. Not that I have actual good answers for these things, but I've lived through one or two life scenarios and realized that I, like most growing young adults, only have the clarity of hindsight to tell me that I probably could have saved some hardship, some hard feelings, or just brought a deeper level of communion to a relationship that I let slip. The book would be an offering to those who will likely face the same situations and need guidance to do things maybe just a little better.

As I was reading the story of the Transfiguration I was stuck wondering what the disciples must have been thinking as Jesus transformed himself miraculously and has a conversation with past prophets. Something like, "what in the world?!" One of them decides to offer some shelters to these glowing beings, as if timeless spiritual manifestations need to worry about that. Then verse 6 says, "he did not know what to say, they were so frightened." Yes, of course! What could he say? What would you say? These disciples had been following a man who was so utterly fantastic. He could preach, he could heal people and drive out demons. He took the hands of outcast women, and sat with the children, and chastised much of the contemporary practices of the day. Over and over Jesus was revealing who he was and there was no guide book for those around him to react, respond, and improve upon - just Jesus' teachings and his model of being. Through his life, death, and resurrection, the disciples were always playing catch up on Jesus's purpose in the world, frantically trying to take it all in and pass it along to those that would come after.

So eventually they wrote a book. Seems like a common instinct for those who recognize how much there is to learn and how dearly you long for those after you to see truths you couldn't. I may never write my book, but as for the disciples and authors of the Bible, I'm sure glad they got around to it.

Sunday Adult Forum

This Sunday, February 11: "A Taste of India"

In October we celebrated our 30 year history and partnership with Bethania Kids. On February 11 we look forward --to Bethania's plans and the possibility of a Mount Olive partnership trip to India in 2019.

Kate Hennig Teece, Gene Hennig's oldest daughter, will join us during the education hour as we learn about goals and dreams for Bethania Kids ministries in southern India. After the second liturgy we'll move downstairs for an Indian feast and talk together about how we can more effectively partner with Bethania in ministry.

Next Sunday, February 18: "The Church's Song: Always in Reform," presented by Cantor David Cherwien

What are the characteristics of sacred music we call "Lutheran?" This forum will be a look at the church's song from the perspective of a Reformation church - a look at song that is in a constant state of re-forming.

A Journey Through Judges

Thursday Bible Study

This year's third Thursday Bible study series began on January 18, focusing on the exciting, colorful, and violent leaders in the book of Judges, trying to explore the question of where we see God in their stories. Special attention will be paid to the role of women in the book. This study continues through February 15.

The 90-minute sessions begin at 6:00 p.m. with a light supper. All are welcome.

Lent Procession Service

All are invited to this contemplative service of lessons and carols for Lent on Sunday, Feb. 18, at 4:00 pm. Lent Procession is offered as an opportunity to withdraw from the busyness of life to pray, sing, listen, smell - to fully enter into the season of Lent, a time to renew of our lives as baptized children of God.

Bring Your Palms!

If you have palm branches at home left from last Palm Sunday, please bring them to church this Sunday, Feb. 11. They will be burned on Shrove Tuesday after the Pancake Supper and used for Ash Wednesday Eucharists.

Taste of India – This Sunday!

Each year your Missions Committee sets aside a Sunday to celebrate one of our mission partners. On Sunday we celebrate Bethania Kids in southern India.

See some of those precious kids in the display case. Learn about this 30 year old project and its future goals during education hour as Bethania and Kate Hennig Teece share their story. Share a wonderful meal of food from India cooked by over 40 of our famous Mount Olive cooks. Consider how you want to get involved, from participating in a partnership trip to India in 2019 to supporting a child to learning more about the impact this ministry has had in India for 30 years.

Join the celebration during education hour and at the luncheon following our second liturgy.

Join faithful advocates from across the state on March 13, 2018, to reflect on why we make our voices heard, to plan for continues actions in our home communities, and to speak with representatives at the State Capitol.

Hope for Creation

On Saturday, February 17, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at Hennepin Avenue United Methodist Church, Dr. Timothy Eberhart will lead a series of workshop sessions that explore how Christians are called to share in the healing of creation. Participants will reflect on the spiritual implications of environmental degradation, examine the relevance of Christian beliefs to an ecological perspective, and explore practical ways people of faith are engaged in mission and justice for the good of the earth. Music performed by singer-songwriter Leslie Ball will ground and uplift our reflections throughout the day.

The registration fee for the workshop is $15 per person and lunch is included for those who RSVP by February 14, 2018. Registration at the door is possible, with limited lunch availability. Free childcare is available for children age 10 and younger. To learn more and to register, go to: garrett.edu/hopeforcreation. ## Date Set for Healthcare Refresher Course

The Mount Olive Congregational Care Committee invites you to save Saturday, February 24, 9:00 – 12:00 AM, at Mount Olive, to either take another look at your HealthCare Directive, learn about creating one, or guiding your loved ones toward putting this in place for themselves and their families. The Honoring Choices option as well as the POLST form (a document completed by patient and physician at a point where end of life is close) are topics to be covered.

Other agenda items can and will be added, depending upon requests submitted prior to the workshop. There has been interest in topics such as –

- planning funerals;
- what we as people of faith can take into consideration as we examine the dilemma of MAID (Medical Aid in Dying);
- how to engage hesitant family members in conversation about end of life concerns;
- how we as a community of faith care for and respond to those among us who are facing illness and major life changes.

While not necessary to pre-register, it will be helpful to know if you, your family, or friends plan to participate. Please also share your specific interests by contacting Marilyn Gebauer at: 612-306-8872 or gebauvm@bitstream.net.
