Accent on Worship

Anna Scott

It occurred to me this morning that this is my final accent on worship as the serving Coordinator of Neighborhood Outreach and Ministry. This allowed me a precious time of reflection on how this role, and my personal life, has transformed in the past four and a half years. As for me personally, I got a dog, got married, moved twice, and am about to have my second baby girl. That's a lot of change! Mount Olive has also seen its share of what is new and what is let go of. We have an HVAC system and a solar roof, a fresh parking lot, a whole lively batch of babies in the pews, new partnerships and programs and many that continue to sustain us. When I came on board we were also finishing a beautiful visioning process that drives and shapes how we are in the world – in the presence of God, being the presence of God.

Getting this job was a miraculous answer to prayer. The work, as varied and particular as it is, felt natural and gratifying. Though there was much to learn on the technical, programmatic side of this role, what I have gained moreover is a way to be. I've learned a way to remain humble in my understandings of people's lives and situations. I've honed a way to choose gentleness and generosity, while still asking for the best someone can give for the moment they are in. I've built a network of relationships within the neighborhood that enrich our ability to learn from and engage with one another in small but powerful ways. This is all possible because of the commitment that Mount Olive chooses to uphold as a church, not just through this job, but through its teachings and its love for one another, known or unknown.

I won't lie, this next transition is a complexity of excitement and sorrow. I will mourn not getting to do this incredible work with amazing people. Still, there is much joy to come for our family and curiosity about what adventures are ahead for us. All that I've learned I get to take with me. I have great confidence that the next Coordinator of Neighborhood Ministry will bring about wonderful new skills and perspective that will carry us all even further in to relationship with our neighbors. Likewise, the acts of kindness, Christ-like love, and generosity of spirit that each of you offer through your lives will continue to shine light through the porous walls of this church on 31st and Chicago. For that I am deeply grateful and say thank you.

Implicit Bias Learning at Mount Olive

In the aftermath of Matta Ghaly's departure as our vicar last October, the congregation and the Vestry, in meetings on Oct. 14 and 8 respectively, committed to finding ways for Mount Olive to learn more about implicit bias and how we learn to see our blind spots and learn new ways of listening and speaking with others. While there were many factors to Matta's leaving, it was clear to many of us that we as a people of God had things we could learn in this area.

There is a three-pronged approach that the Vestry, along with Neighborhood Ministry committee and the Adult Forum planning team, has decided to do.

First, there will be an Adult Forum on the topic of implicit bias on Sunday, March 10, between liturgies. Anne Phibbs, PhD, will be presenter. Dr. Phibbs is Founder and President of Strategic Diversity Initiatives and brings over 25 years' experience helping organizations advance their equity, diversity, and inclusion goals. She will speak on the following premise: "in order to address the myriad ways that certain people are marginalized based on social identities such as race, gender, disability, religion, class, sexual orientation, etc., every one of us needs to understand our own identities, how we all demonstrate bias that is often unconscious, and how we are all capable of moving toward equity."

Second, Restorative Justice Community Action (a group that many Mount Olive people have worked with, and who uses our building for a number of their needs) will lead a workshop called "Community Conversations," on Saturday, March 30, from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. All members of the congregation are invited to attend; it will also be advertised through RJCA, so there will likely be some of our neighbors attending as well. Here's a brief summary of what it will contain: "With the continued tensions and protests around racial inequity in our society reinforced by system designs, it is important to increase the civic dialogue and empower citizens to enact positive change. However, race and implicit bias are often difficult topics to discuss with honesty in our civic spaces. Fight, flight, or freeze emotions such as shame, anger, denial, distrust, and fear often create barriers for real dialogue. When these take over, it impedes our ability to construct equitable solutions together. "Community Conversations" utilizes a restorative justice circle process to explore race and implicit bias in a way that diminishes these responses and opens one up to the opportunity to reflect on the root causes of impulsive reactions."

Third, three members of Mount Olive, Cynthia Prosek, Samantha Pipkorn, and Irene Campbell, recently went through a four-day training in this "circle process" that we will experience in the workshop. They will be looking for and creating opportunities for continuing this conversation at Mount Olive in the months and years to come.

I hope that all members of Mount Olive will consider attending both the forum and the workshop. We always can benefit from deeper learning and listening, and God works through that to bring us to new ways of being Christ together and in the world.

Blessings,
Pr. Crippen

Update on Neighborhood Ministry Search

As Anna and Josh Scott prepare for the arrival of child number two, and Anna's time as our Coordinator of Neighborhood Ministry nears an end, here is an update on the process.

23 resumes were received, and the search team held five interviews last week. Three have been invited back for second interviews the week of Feb. 25. We hope to have someone hired and able to begin mid-March. Anna is planning on finishing at the end of February. Please pray for our candidates and this process.

Farewell to Anna: On Sunday, March 10, after second liturgy, we'll have a traditional Lutheran potluck (Anna's choice!) to say thank you to Anna for her service. Details to come!

Taste of Nigeria – This Sunday

This Sunday, February 24, we will celebrate our growing partnership with the Lutheran Church of Christ in Nigeria. Mount Olive is developing a relationship with the LCCN's seminary, Bronnum Seminary in Yola, Nigeria.

During Adult Forum, we will have a chance to learn more about the LCCN and Bronnum, and since Mount Olive member Brad Holt will be in Yola at the time, we hope to share a live video exchange with Brad, Ibrahim Bitrus, and other members of the community.

Following the forum, we will feast Nigerian style at our Taste of Nigeria dinner following our second liturgy.

Plan on a day of celebrating this amazing Lutheran church, one of the largest and fastest growing Lutheran church in the world.
