Accent on Worship

Interim Cantor Dietrich Jessen

I do a lot of traveling for work which ultimately leads to time well-spent in our nation's airports. Because of my travel frequency, I usually end up on the Delta complimentary upgrade list and often find myself sitting in premium cabins of the aircraft. Albeit nice, there's an element of humanity that's often missing from that travel experience; usually coupled with stressed travelers, people with significant meeting timelines, and business calls that can't wait. Amid the chaos, however, I usually try and take time to pay attention to those I am traveling with. Everyone is partaking in their own journey; both literally and figuratively. We must notice those around us to take part in the shared humanity that we experience.

Our journey of air travel begins when we enter the bustling airport scene - sometimes even in the dreaded traffic line before even reaching the building doors. Our encounters begin - we see the families being separated (temporarily or permanently) at the car door, often sealed with long hugs, and we enter the craziness of the terminal. We next get to endure the combination of patience testing: checking a bag, waiting in the long security lines, taking our shoes off (ugh!), and then making it to the other end and knowing we must reach our gate on time.

In the midst of this journey we often see those who are tirelessly working to ensure we have an on-time departure, and a safe one, too. These are the people who also have to (sometimes) deliver bad news; delays, cancellations, etc. It's in that moment that the humanity we've been paying attention to can often cause us to squirm. We see people begin to lean into their stress, anxiety, and impatience and take out their grief or anger on those who simply have no control over the situation(s). Maybe it's us that is exhibiting this frustration. Maybe we are simply the witness.

Whatever our role is in that specific moment, we should realize that we are called to something better; something more fruitful and productive. This Sunday, February 20, we will sing "Build a Longer Table." This hymn, new to us at Mount Olive, expresses our travel experience poignantly. In lieu of listing the entire hymn text here, I will share with you Stanza 3:

*Build a broader doorway, not a longer fence.
 Love protects all people, sparing no expense.
 When we embrace compassion more than fear,
 Christ tears down our fences; all are welcome here!*

In addition to this hymn text, this Sunday's lectionary texts are focused on forgiveness, peace, and love. If there's ever been a Sunday whose entire set of texts apply to us as travelers in the busyness of the world, it's Epiphany 7C. Remember this next time you begin your journey. Maybe somewhere warm? God's blessings.

- Interim Cantor Dietrich Jessen

Neighborhood Ministries Partner of the Month

Walk-In Counseling Center provides “free, easily accessible mental health counseling to people with urgent needs and few service options.” Counselors work with people struggling with depression, anxiety, chemical dependency, domestic violence, and many other emotional and interpersonal concerns. Walk-In Counseling is an active and vital part of our neighborhood, operating out of a beautifully converted house at 24th and Chicago. Through the pandemic, Walk-In has continued to provide their vital services through electronic means, protecting both the physical and mental health of their clients and staff.

Mount Olive has chosen to support each of our Partners of the Month through a yearly contribution from our budget, but on top of that, we encourage any member who wishes to contribute over and above our budgeted amount to those partners doing work in their areas of passion and concern. You can do this using your pink offering envelopes or through our online giving system. All additional contributions to our partner of the month will be distributed to the partner for the month in which the contribution is received.

Learning About Afghanistan

The people of Afghanistan belong to a variety of ethnic groups, likely due to their location at the crossroads of central Asia. Two groups, however, make up the majority of the population.

Pashto (or Pashtoon) people comprise about 42% of the population of the country. They live primarily in the southern and western part of the country. The most politically influential group for centuries, Pashtuns established the Afghan monarchy, and number among their members the former president of Afghanistan, Hamed Karzhi. Like most of Afghanistan, Pashtuns practice Sunni Islam, and speak Pashto, an Indo-Iranian language.

Tajik people make up about 30% of Afghanistan's population. They are also Sunni Muslims, and live in the northern and central areas of the country, with many of them living in the urban areas. They tend to speak Dari, a type of Persian language. Kahled Hosseini, author of Kite Runner and A Thousand Splendid Suns, is from this ethnic group.

Tajiks have aligned themselves with western military forces for many years, fighting the Russians in the 1980s, and helping to push back the primarily Pashto Taliban in alignment with the western allies since 2001.

There has been underlying tension between ethnic Tajiks and ethnic Pashtos for many years.

The Hazara people make up about 10% of Afghanistan's population. They are thought to be descendants of Ghengis Khan's followers and have a different facial appearance from many other Afghans. Because of this, and the fact that they are Shia Muslim, they often face racial prejudice.

Missions update

ABOUT: Bethania Kids, founded in 1987, serves impoverished children, women, and families in India. Its key founders included Mount Olive's Hennig family. Bethania's fifteen sites include four residential homes (two for girls, two for boys), nine day- and after-school care centers, and two centers for differently-abled children. "Empowerment" programs at six locations teach women skills that enable them to help support their families.

MOUNT OLIVE'S SUPPORT STARTED: ca. 1990

OUR CURRENT ANNUAL SUPPORT: $4,500

WEBSITE: <http://www.bethaniakids.org>

FOR PERSPECTIVE: Our missions gifts to eleven organizations in 2021 totaled $23,500 (we gave an additional $7,500 for disaster/COVID relief, Afghan resettlement, and a new Lutheran university in Nigeria).

WHAT'S NEW? The completion of a new and permanent home for Bethania's Shalom Home for Girls at Batlagundu, was celebrated January 20, with a ribbon cutting, speeches, dancing, music, and food. Some Bethania leaders spoke from distant locations via electronic media, including board president Kate Hennig Teece. Shalom's forty-five residents, ranging in age from four to eighteen and many of them orphans, had been living at a temporary and rented location at Kodaikanal, forty miles from Batlagundu. The girls and staff were expected to move to the new building in February.
